https://machinelearningmastery.com/machine-learning-in-python-step-by-step/

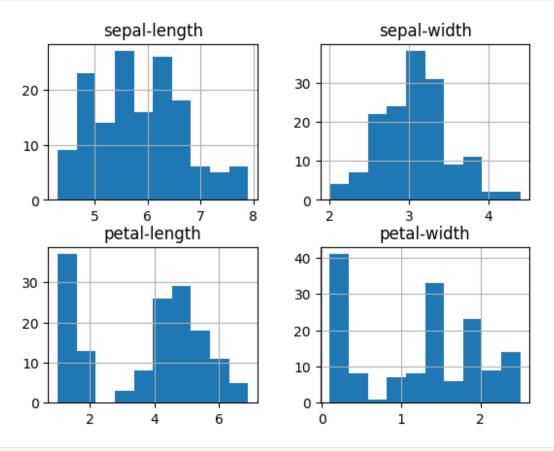

```
Python version
import svs print('Python: {}'.format(sys.version))
scipy
import scipy
print('scipy: {}'.format(scipy. version ))
numpy
import numpy
print('numpy: {}'.format(numpy. version ))
matplotlib
import matplotlib print('matplotlib: {}'.format(matplotlib. version ))
pandas
import pandas
print('pandas: {}'.format(pandas. version ))
scikit-learn import sklearn
print('sklearn: {}'.format(sklearn. version )) Python: 3.8.8 (default, Apr 13 2021, 15:08:03) [MSC v.1916 64 bit (AMD64)1
scipy: 1.6.2
numpy: 1.20.1
matplotlib: 3.3.4
pandas: 1.2.4
sklearn: 0.24.1
Load libraries
from pandas import read csv from pandas.plotting import scatter_matrix from matplotlib import pyplot from sklearn.model selection import train test split from sklearn.model selection import cross val score from sklearn.model selection import StratifiedKFold from sklearn.metrics import classification report from sklearn.metrics import confusion matrix from sklearn.metrics import accuracy score from sklearn.linear model import LogisticRegression from sklearn.tree import DecisionTreeClassifier from sklearn.neighbors import KNeighborsClassifier from sklearn.discriminant analysis import LinearDiscriminantAnalysis from sklearn.naive bayes import GaussianNB from sklearn.svm import SVC
Load dataset
```

```
url =
"https://raw.githubusercontent.com/jbrownlee/Datasets/master/iris.csv"
names to assign each column
names = ['sepal-length', 'sepal-width', 'petal-length', 'petal-width', 'class'l
dataset = read csv(url, names=names)
Step 3
shape of dataset
print(dataset.shape) (150, 5)
dataset.head(20)
They wrapped this in a print() instead, but this way looks better in jupyter sepal-length sepal-width petal-length
                                               petal-width
                                                                   class 0 5.1
                           3.5
                                          1.4
                                                        0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
1
             4.9
                           3.0
                                          1.4
                                                        0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
2
             4.7
                           3.2
                                          1.3
                                                        0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
3
             4.6
                           3.1
                                          1.5
                                                        0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
4
             5.0
                           3.6
                                          1.4
                                                        0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
5
             5.4
                           3.9
                                          1.7
                                                       0.4
                                                             Iris-setosa
6
                                                             Iris-setosa
             4.6
                           3.4
                                                       0.3
                                          1.4
7
             5.0
                           3.4
                                          1.5
                                                       0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
8
                           2.9
                                                             Iris-setosa
             4.4
                                          1.4
                                                       0.2
9
             4.9
                           3.1
                                          1.5
                                                        0.1
                                                             Iris-setosa
10
             5.4
                           3.7
                                          1.5
                                                       0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
11
             4.8
                           3.4
                                          1.6
                                                       0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
                                                             Iris-setosa
12
             4.8
                           3.0
                                          1.4
                                                       0.1
13
             4.3
                           3.0
                                          1.1
                                                        0.1
                                                             Iris-setosa
14
             5.8
                           4.0
                                          1.2
                                                        0.2
                                                             Iris-setosa
15
             5.7
                           4.4
                                          1.5
                                                        0.4
                                                             Iris-setosa
16
             5.4
                           3.9
                                          1.3
                                                        0.4
                                                             Iris-setosa
17
             5.1
                           3.5
                                          1.4
                                                        0.3
                                                             Iris-setosa
18
             5.7
                           3.8
                                          1.7
                                                       0.3
                                                             Iris-setosa
                                                       0.3
19
             5.1
                           3.8
                                          1.5
                                                             Iris-setosa
print(dataset.describe()) sepal-length sepal-width
                                   petal-length
                                                  petal-width
         150.000000 150.000000 150.000000 150.000000 count
           5.843333
                         3.054000
                                        3.758667
                                                      1.198667 mean std
           0.828066
                         0.433594
                                        1.764420
                                                      0.763161
           4.300000
                         2.000000 min
                                        1.000000
                                                      0.100000
25%
           5.100000
                         2.800000
                                        1.600000
                                                     0.300000
50%
           5.800000
                                                     1.300000
                                        4.350000
                         3.000000 75%
                         3.300000
                                        5.100000
           6.400000
                                                      1.800000
           7.900000
                                        6.900000
                         4.400000
                                                     2.500000
max
```

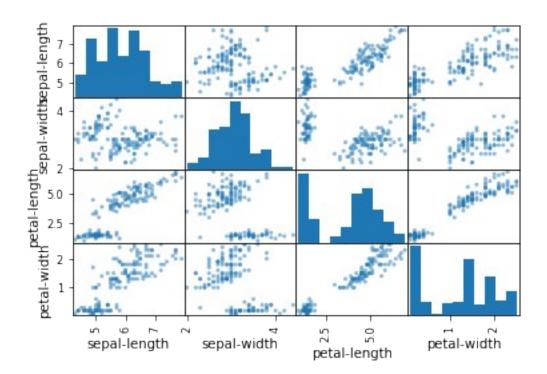

```
print(dataset.groupby('class').size())
class
Iris-setosa
                   50 Iris-versicolor
                   50 50 Iris-virginica
dtype: int64
class distribution dataset.groupby('class').size()
class
Iris-setosa
                   50 Iris-versicolor
                   50 Iris-virginica
                   50 dtype: int64
Part 4
dataset.plot(kind='box', subplots=True, layout=(2,2), sharex=False, sharey=False)
pyplot.show()
```

```
histograms dataset.hist()
```

scatter plot matrix scatter_matrix(dataset)
pyplot.show()
diagonal grouping suggests correlation between some pairs of attributes
= high correlation and a predictable relationship

Skipping the complete example portions because with jupyter we don't have to keep initializing the variables or creating multiples of the same plots

```
Step 5.1
Split-out validation dataset
array = dataset.values X = array[:, 0:4]
y = array[:,4]
80% of data used for training
20% of data used for validation (testing)
X train, X validation, Y train, Y validation = train test split(X, y, test_size=0.20, random_state=1)
Spot Check Algorithms
models = []
Simple linear
models.append(('LR', LogisticRegression(solver='liblinear', multi class='ovr')))
models.append(('LDA', LinearDiscriminantAnalysis()))
Non-Linear
models.append(('KNN', KNeighborsClassifier())) models.append(('CART', DecisionTreeClassifier())) models.append(('NB', GaussianNB())) models.append(('SVM', SVC(gamma='auto')))
evaluate each model in turn results = []
```

```
names = []
print("Name\tAccuracy (Standard Deviation)") for name, model in models:
    kfold = StratifiedKFold(n_splits=10, random_state=1, shuffle=True) cv results = cross val score(model, X train, Y train, cv=kfold, scoring='accuracy') results.append(cv results) names.append(name)
    # converted to f-string because its better
    print(f"{name}:\t{cv results.mean():.6f} (\{cv\ results.std():.6f\})^{"})
Name Accuracy (Standard Deviation)
     0.941667 (0.065085)
LR:
LDA: 0.975000 (0.038188)
KNN: 0.958333 (0.041667)
CART: 0.941667 (0.053359)
     0.950000 (0.055277)
SVM: 0.983333 (0.033333)
Compare Algorithms
pyplot.boxplot(results, labels=names) pyplot.title('Algorithm Comparison')
pyplot.show()
```

```
from sklearn.svm import SVC
using the SVM algo because it was the best performing with our dataset
Make predictions on validation dataset
model = SVC(gamma='auto')
X train: features for training set
Y train: labels for training set model.fit(X_train, Y_train) predictions = model.predict(X validation)
Evaluate predictions
print("Accuracy Score:\n", accuracy score(Y validation, predictions)) print("\nConfusion Matrix:\n", confusion matrix(Y validation, predictions)) print("\nClassification Report:\n", classification report(Y validation, predictions))
improved readability of display
Accuracy Score:
 0.966666666666667
Confusion Matrix:
 [[11 0 0]
 [ 0 12 1]
 [0 \quad 0 \quad 6]]
Classification Report:
                                recall f1-score precision support
    Iris-setosa
                      1.00
                                 1.00
                                           1.00
                                                       11
Iris-versicolor
                                 0.92
                                                       13
                      1.00
                                           0.96
Iris-virginica
                      0.86
                                 1.00
                                           0.92
                                                        6 0.97 30 accuracy 30 macro avq
                      0.95
                                 0.97
                                           0.96
                      0.97
                                 0.97
                                           0.97 30 weighted avg
```

Accuracy score is self explanatory

Confusion matrix provides indication of errors

Classification report provides breakdown each class by precision, recall, f1-score and support

- Precision: ratio of correct predicted positives to total predicted positives
- Recall: sensitivity; ratio of correctly predicted positives to all observations
- F1-Score: harmonic mean of precision and recall. Between 1 (perfect precision and recall) and 0
- Support: number of actual occurrances of the class in dataset